Response to Amendment

1. Claims 1-8 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The primary reason for the allowance of claims 1-8 is the inclusion of the limitation of the flow passage is formed as a sealed space except for portions connected to the discharging portion of said recovery means and to said ink retaining means, the flow passage being provided with an absorber while maintaining a gap between walls of the flow passage and the absorber and extending from the discharging portion to said ink retaining means. It is these limitations found in each of the claims, as they are claimed in the combination that has not been found, taught or suggested by the prior art of record, which makes these claims allowable over the prior art.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

US 6,123,408, "Ink-jet type image forming apparatus and ink suction pump used therein" issued to Ishize et al., 9/2000 teaches in their figs.5, 9, and 10 an ink suction pump (17a), which sucks ink from ink jet head through capping device (9), and discharges the ink through connection (18) to waste ink absorber (4b). There is an ink absorber (sponge 18b) disposed inside the connector (18) functioned as a ink transfer member. The connector (18) in this invention is equivalent to the flow passage in the instant application, however, one of its terminals connected to the discharging portion of the recovery means is not sealed.

US 5,717,444, "Suction recovery device and ink jet recording apparatus using the same" issued to Sugimoto et al., 2/98 teaches in their figs. 8A, 9 and 16 an ink suction pump, a flow passage absorbing member (242) is disposed inside the cylinder flow passage (24b), one end of the flow passage absorbing member (242) is contacted with a waste ink absorbing member (37). The end of the flow passage in Sugimoto et al.'s case is actually an integral part of the ink suction pump.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
